Flush Jap From Field

B29 Raid Leaves 4 Jap Cities Aflame

GUAM, June 29 (AP)—Huge fires raged in Japan's great shipbuilding center of Sasebo and three other industrial cities today after nearly 500 Superfortresses rained 3000 tons of fire bombs on the home islands.

The unrelenting war of annihilation from the skies caught the Japanese without a defense. Not a single enemy fighter plane rose to meet the intruders.

The bombardiers picked targets which never before had felt the full weight of the Superfortresses.

Returning pilots said the raid was challenged only by anti-aircraft fire in the predawn attacks on the principal island of Honshu, on which Tokyo is located, and on the southernmost island of Kyushu.

One B-29 failed to return.

Smoke rose to 20,000 feet over Sasebo and the three other enemy targets, returning crewmen said.

The cloud cover screening the target cities glowed "like a red hot plate," they declared, reporting that fires were visible from 50 to 75 miles away.

One B-29 ducked under the cloud cover and the crew said the coal and iron port of Moji was well hit and fires getting a good hold.

Large explosions and fires were observed over Nobeko, producer of chemicals and explosives on eastern Kyushu.

Superfort crews said that the heat over Okayama was so intense "it burned a hole in the overcast."

Bombing was visual over Okayama, site of many small war plants, including aircraft parts.

(Japanese broadcasts said the raiders also attacked the industrial city of Shimonoseki, on the southern tip of Honshu, and Kanoya, on southern Kyushu, but claimed the fires were under control.)

U. S. Fleet in Action In Makassar Straits

MANILA, June 29 (AP)—An American fleet has returned to the Makassar Straits east of Borneo for the first time since the torrid days of January, 1942, Gen. MacArthur disclosed today.

The invasion-conscious Japanese reported a naval bombardment of the Borneo east coast had been in progress for 10 days, and that Allied landing attempts at Balikpapan had been beaten off.

MacArthur gave no confirmation of any of these reports, but his communique did report destruction of three Japanese torpedo planes on Monday by American surface ships in the Makassar Straits and told of continuing Allied air blows throughout the East Indies, particularly at Balikpapan.

The ships involved undoubtedly belong to the U. S. Seventh Fleet, which put ashore the Australian Ninth Division on British North Borneo and Labuan in the Brunei Bay area June 10.

The Australians last were reported to have taken Beaufort, in a 15-mile advance northeast up the Borneo coast along the narrow-gauge railway toward the Japanese base of Jesselton.

In the Philippines, the U. S. Sixth Division made a 400-yard gain in the northern Luzon mountains toward the still stiffly defended Japanese base of Kian-gan.

Polish Soldiers, Kin To Get Land Grants

MOSCOW, June 28 (AP)—Tass reported today the commander in chief of Polish troops in Warsaw announced soldiers, guerrillas and families of those who gave their lives for Poland would be allotted ten hectares (about 25 acres) of land each in western Polish territories.

CANDY FOR OKINAWA KIDS—The attention of Okinawa youngsters is easily won by Marine John McElanahan, of St. Joseph, Mo., who distributes candy to the hungry children during a pause along the highway of that former Jap-held island.

Japs Moving War Plants to Manchuria

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29 (AP)—A large-scale transfer of war industries from Japan to Manchuria because of "the enemy's air raids"—which already have desolated broad areas of Nippon's main cities—was announced today by Tokyo radio.

At the same time, the enemy admitted American aerial blows had interfered with Japan's communications with Manchuria.

A Domei dispatch said American planes based on Okinawa were opening the battle for air supremacy over the southern home island of Kyushu, but that this was only "a curtain raiser to the decisive battle of the Japanese mainland."

"In Kyushu," Domei continued, "it is not rare for an air raid alert to be sounded more than 50 times in a single day. Since the frequency of enemy air raids will undoubtedly increase hereafter, Kyushu will be placed under an air alert almost without interruption."

Polish Exile Regime Admits Future Vague

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—A spokesman for the Polish Exile Government in London declared today that the Polish army of 200,000 to 250,000 men remained "completely loyal to us," but admitted the future of the regime was unknown.

He denied a London report the government was looking for sanctuary either in Eire or Canada.

Sen. Taft in Try to Halt Anti-FEPC Filibuster

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—A 12-hour, 32-minute session that ended early today brought the Senate face-to-face with a decision whether to ration oratory.

Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio, and 31 colleagues representing both major parties presented a rarely-accepted cloture petition to limit senatorial debate.

Most of the free and unlimited conversation which began at noon yesterday centered on the proposal to vote operating funds to the Fair Employment Practice committee.

Sen. Bilbo (D.) of Mississippi, and a potent bloc of southerners opposed it on their contention that it spelled trouble between the races, friction in industry and governmental meddling in business.

Sen. Chavez (D.) of New Mexico, fought for it just as vigorously, contending the southerners were attempting to thwart the will of a majority of the Senate.

Chavez seeks to write a $446,200 appropriation for FEPC into a $770,000 omnibus bill carrying funds to support a score of war agencies.

Theoretically, if the bill isn't passed by midnight tomorrow, the end of the current fiscal year, none of the agencies will have any operating funds. Practically, the situation won't be quite that acute.

Under Senate rules, the cloture petition can't be voted on until Monday.

Attempts to apply cloture bob up almost every session, but the last time it was applied was Feb. 26, 1927, on a bill to create a bureau of customs and prohibition. If successful, it means every senator is limited to a total of one hour of talk on the pending question.

Chavez said he was going to wait until doomsday. For a while it looked as though he had the situation accurately scouted.

Majority leader Barkley offered a compromise: Give FEPC $250,000 to last all next fiscal year instead of the $446,200 Chavez declared essential, but no death sentence for the organization such as Bilbo had demanded repeatedly.

Chavez arose to make a speech of acceptance but got to brooding out loud about how his side had been kicked around all day. No soap.

Bilbo said he was in no position to do any horse-trading at that late hour. He said he and his colleagues would think it over this morning.

Sen. Taft, suddenly noticing a cloture petition in his hand, sought opportunity to present it formally.

Barkley moved to recess, and quickly wished he hadn't. The Senate slapped his motion down, 19 to 28, on a rollcall, but Sen. Wherry, the Republican whip, figured out that 19 and 28 do not add up to more than half of 95 Senators.

Wherry's keen mathematical observation gave the reading clerk a sore throat. For the next hour or so he called the roll, seeking to record a quorum.

Sgt-at-Arms Wall Doxey, who used to be a Senator himself, brought in the absentees, one by one.

Midnight passed. The Senate had been in session a full 12 hours.

In a silence so deep you could hear the Senators' arteries harden, Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Wyoming Democrat, strolled into the chamber at 12:12 a. m.

The quorum complete, Taft presented his petition, and Barkley said he sure hoped something could be worked out that would make it unnecessary to bring it to a vote.

Chinese Take Liuchow Airfield

CHUNGKING, June 29 (AP)—A Chinese Army spokesman announced today that Chinese troops had captured the main airfield in the southern suburbs of Liuchow which Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's 14th Air Force was forced to abandon to the Japanese Nov. 7.

The spokesman said Chinese also had retaken the city's south railway station.

Fierce fighting was reported raging in the western and northwestern suburbs of Liuchow where other Chinese forces were battling their way toward the center of the city.

India Conference Split by Quarrel

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—The New Delhi radio said today the Simla conference summoned by Viceroy Lord Wavell to discuss his plans for revision of the Indian government has been adjourned until July 14 because of a disagreement between leaders of the Moslem League and the Congress party.

The two factions had previously been reported deadlocked over the distribution of seats in a proposed vice-regal council.

IMOGENE HELD, BARE TRIANGLE

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., June 29 (AP)—Coroner Theodore E. Steiber today found Mrs. Imogene Stevens, 24, criminally responsible for the death by shooting of Albert Kovacs, 19, submarine sailor whom the Army major's wife shot and killed in the home of a neighbor in New Canaan Saturday night.

The coroner said statements furnished by police indicated Mrs. Stevens was "under the influence of liquor and under a high emotional strain" when she fired three shots into the Norwalk youth's body, but asserted "the intoxicated condition of Mrs. Stevens does not absolve her from a charge of manslaughter."

Steiber reported chemical analysis on Albert's body showed he, too, was "definitely under the influence of liquor."

From statements made to police by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milton, in whose home, adjoining that of the Stevens residence, the shooting occurred, it would appear, said Steiber, that "an illicit love had existed between Mrs. Stevens and Mr. Milton which caused the Milton home to be broken up for a number of months."

On the night of the shooting, the coroner said, Mrs. Stevens ton home when ordered to do so by Mrs. Stevens produced three shots from the gun of Mrs. Stevens and caused his death."

The coroner pointed out James had testified Mrs. Stevens fired the three shots "without any harsh language or any scuffle preceding the shooting."

Pointing out that because Mrs. Stevens had declined to give her version of the shooting at the inquest, the coroner said that "James' statement stands undisputed and uncontradicted."

"This leaves no other choice," said Steiber, "to the undersigned than to find that Albert Kovacs came to his death as a result of the criminal act of Mrs. Imogene Stevens."

James, 29-year-old brother of the slain sailor, had driven him to the Milton home to see Faith Coombs, a one-time Norwalk High School classmate and maid for the Miltons' three young children.

Mrs. Stevens had told police shortly after that that Albert attempted to attack her as she ordered the brothers to leave the house where she found them. James vigorously denied this in his inquest testimony.

Subsequent developments showed Faith and another girl (identified by International News Service as Lois Moore, 18) and two young men who had been at the Miltons awaiting the arrival of the Kovacs left shortly before the brothers arrived, at which time the Miltons also had gone for a walk, leaving the house open and lighted.

(The two girls and two boys told of window smashing and mysterious backyard lugging.)

Of the three shots that were fired into Kovacs' body, the coroner said, only one inflicted a wound showing powder marks. That bullet entered Albert's chest and the presence of the powder marks, the coroner said, would indicate Mrs. Stevens was "standing above and close to him when this wound was inflicted."

This would corroborate, said Steiber, James' testimony that the first two shots were fired when Albert and Mrs. Stevens were some distance apart and that "in all probability" Albert made a rush for Mrs. Stevens "for the purpose of taking the gun, when

After 6 Years--'Calling London'

Kennedys, Father, Son in 3-Way Talk

By JACK McLEAN AND JOE FRANKLAND

London, Hyannis and Boston were dramatically linked in a telephone interview today that resumed overseas service and ended the blackout which began with the war. Through the Boston Record-American switchboard, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy turned reporter at his Hyannis home to quiz his son, John F. Kennedy, while a Boston American staff member listened in on the latter's opinions from London.

The call, the first such made in six years, was five days in the making and had been eagerly awaited by father and son since Saturday when the Bell System Overseas Telephone Service announced censorship was over.

It started out as a homey, friendly talk between a father and his son but the two found time to talk of British politics in the coming election, of English rehabilitation and housing, of food and night life.

Mostly, it concerned the health of the many members of the Kennedy family who throughout the war have been separated by the Atlantic, sometimes the Pacific, too.

The overseas operator informed the American at 2 a. m. Boston Time, that the call so carefully planned finally could be put through.

Through the American switchboard, the former ambassador was awakened. The hour made no difference to him. He was going to talk to his boy—a boy who not so long ago was piloting a PT boat against the Japs and winning decorations.

For 11 minutes the elder Kennedy waited and chatted until London hooked in for this first three-way transatlantic talk.

Young Kennedy told his father he believes Winston Churchill will win victory for the Tory Party in the coming elections through his personal popularity alone, although the Labor Party is due to make wide gains.

They talked of Daughter Kathleen Kennedy, the Boston girl who is the widow of Lord Hartington, who was killed in action in France shortly after the much-talked-of international romance.

They talked, too—and sadly—of Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., USNR, who was killed in a bomber crash in the European theater and who only this week was posthumously awarded the Navy Medal.

This telephone conversation, which linked the two nations again after six years of war and censorship, lasted eight minutes, with Kennedy, Sr., on the line 11 minutes more until the call came back from John, now an International News Service correspondent covering the British elections.

Twice previously, the call was almost made from the London town house of Kathleen, but last-minute difficulties interfered.

Refused Priority

Former Ambassador Kennedy's call, which was sponsored by the Boston American, Record and Sunday Advertiser, was one of the first calls from Boston across the Atlantic since the ban on private telephone service overseas was lifted by the governments of the United States and the United Kingdom.

The former ambassador used no priority, although he could have called great influence to bear had he wished to do so. Called by transatlantic operators and asked if he wished a priority on the call, he replied:

"No, I just wish to talk to my son, Jack, with newspaper colleagues standing by, anxious to hear from him."

"Churchill Will Win, Dad"

Only six lines are open to London, and the overseas operator gave explicit directions before the link was made.

It was pointed out that Japan can listen in on such conversations and that troop movements and similar matters cannot be discussed.

The service has been re-established solely for business and pleasure. The new rate for a Boston-London call is $12 for three minutes. The old rate was $21.

The elder Kennedy was called from his bed to talk to his son. There were the usual "Hello's" and then John burst out happily.

"Who is this, dad? I know it is. Gee, it's swell to talk to you. I received word that I was going to get through to you when I got back from my election tour, and I could hardly wait."

"How are you, son, and how are you getting along?"

"Fine, just fine."

"How are the people in England adjusting themselves?"

"They are pretty tired now—a letdown after victory—but they are beginning to smile again and get back on their feet. I've been doing a lot of writing and traveling in covering the campaign over here. I wrote a story last Sunday. Did you see it?"

"Yes, son, I did and it was great."

"I'll have one next Sunday, and expect good ones every Sunday for the next five weeks."

"How's Kikkie? Is she well?" (Kennedy, Sr., here referred to his daughter, Kathleen.)

"She's fine. She's very well now. As a matter of fact, she is planning to visit me."

and Mrs. Milton went to a Darien tavern and told the bartender they did not intend to leave the place until they had consumed at least 20 glasses of beer, 10 each.

As the drinking party was finished Milton joined the two women at the tavern and to quote his words, "he stated that both women were drunk."

Then the Miltons and Mrs. Stevens went to the Stevens home where the coroner said "more liquor was consumed and while that party was in progress the subject of Milton's relations with Mrs. Stevens came up and 'the feeling between Mrs. Stevens and Milton became so intense Mrs. Milton showed her temper in the matter by taking an ice pick and driving it through the screen and the window of Mrs. Stevens' house as she was passing the front door to go home."

The coroner said that "in reprisal," Mrs. Stevens dashed out of her house and threw a beer glass through a living room window in the Milton home.

Steiber, expressing the belief it was more than a probability that scratches apparent on Mrs. Stevens after the shooting were inflicted by Mrs. Milton, said "It must be in this aura of sex re-creation, beer and window smashing reprisals that we judge the acts and the emotional state of Mrs. Imogene Stevens just before the shooting."

The coroner said that from the testimony of James D. Kovacs it would appear that "the mere refusal of Albert to leave the Mil-

OPA's Policing System Found Too Burdensome

By WARREN STEVENS

One of the chief errors of the OPA in enforcing the food and price rationing program was in biting off more than it could chew. It was a bureau designed in the first place to guard against inflation of prices and bring about a fair distribution of available supplies of food.

Certainly, it was not geared for the task of policing such a huge business with as many ramifications as the food industry, which was but one of the handlers of consumer goods under its general program of price control.

Nor was it geared for the task of handling violations, although it has assumed these powers and proven inadequate for the task, as increasing defiance in the industry and the growth of the black market have shown.

Some price violators have been brought before the State and Federal courts, and that is where they all should go.

Unfortunately for its own program, the OPA has assumed some of this burden. Although this may relieve court dockets, it has not proven a deterrent to violations or shown those who have been cutting legal corners the error of their ways.

In this assumption of judicial powers, the OPA has handled a number of violations through its local board price panels and enforcement attorneys, with their decisions subject to the scrutiny of the regional enforcement attorney.

Reports of OPA investigators are studied and the type of violation determined. Disposition of the case follows.

In cases where packers, wholesalers or retailers, as individuals or firms, are charged with violating price ceilings in the sale of rationed and other products, handled 259 violations of all kinds in Massachusetts, including court cases and those settled out of court.

That figure alone is sufficient evidence that violations have been frequent enough to menace control of prices.

The job of punishing these violations is one for the courts and not for the OPA or any other government bureau.

The job of deciding whether a violation is willful or not is one for a grand jury.

And the job of trying these cases belongs nowhere but in the courts where the violator has the opportunity under the law to prove his innocence or to be convicted like any other common thief.

OPA Sets Ceiling On Surplus Guns

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)

—OPA today established ceiling prices for approximately 100,000 shotguns, new and used, which have been declared surplus by the Army.

The guns were bought for State Guard units created after the National Guard was called into federal service.

Retail prices for new single-barrel guns will be $10.50 and for double-barrel guns $26.

Alaska Army Port To Be Dismantled

SEATTLE, June 29 (AP)—An $18,000,000 Army port, erected at Excursion Inlet in Alaska and used only a year, will be dismantled for salvage this summer by 700 German prisoners of war.

These will be the first prisoners sent outside continental United States. The project was authorized in July, 1942, to provide a transshipment point where barges from the United States could transfer military supplies to ocean-going vessels plying to Kodiak and Aleutian island installations.

Troopship Sails Up Hudson to Piermont

PIERMONT, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—The S.S. Marine Raven arrived from Europe today with 3022 reassignment and rotation troops. She was the second troopship to sail up the Hudson to this town, two miles from Camp Shanks.

Among those aboard were 143 officers and 2829 enlisted men of the 387th Infantry Regiment of the 97th Division, including one officer and 28 enlisted men of the 97th Division band.

Clinton Hero, Col. Philbin, Lands With 373 Other New Englanders

Lt. Col. Tobias R. Philbin of Clinton, who led the capture of the Saarlautern bridge intact in one of the boldest strokes of the European war, men of the famed 95th "Victory" Division, including 373 New Englanders, arrived at Boston today aboard the transport SS Mariposa.

A pistol shot by Philbin saved the day for his troops when they stormed the Saarlautern bridge. As they raced across it the Clinton officer spotted a Nazi running toward a demolition switch to blow up the bridge. Philbin fired without pausing. He killed the German.

One of the first men off the troopship was T-Sgt. Willis Page of Kilauea, Brookline, a bandman who played with the Boston Symphony for three years.

"We lost our instruments when we hit the beach in France," he said, "and we never saw them again. So we served as stretcher-bearers and military police." There were 56 men in the 95th's band. The Bronze Star was won by 28 of them. Twelve others were awarded a Presidential Citation for heroism at a Moselle river bridgehead.

Another Greater Boston arrival was T-Sgt. Simon V. Levovsky of Union st., Everett, an attorney in civil life, who served with the Army Intelligence. He wore a combat infantry badge, the Bronze Star and three battle stars.

Von Pappen, Nazi diplomat and international schemer, was taken by an Intelligence unit of the 95th Division. Levovsky's Intelligence unit moved into Metz with combat troops in order that early control of the civilian population might be established. The Everett man said they broke up several of the "werewolf" gangs which were one of the Nazis' last attempts to resist the American flood.

Levovsky, able to speak German and French fluently, was assigned with other Intelligence members to capture Nazi party leaders, block sabotage efforts, question prisoners and stamp out subversive activities.

"I think we moved pretty fast," he said reflectively. "At least I don't think there will be any subversive activities around Metz for quite a while."

Leading the Division back from Europe was its commanding general, Maj. Gen. H. L. Twaddle, and among the personnel were members of the 37th, 38th and 379th Infantry regiments and the Division's four artillery battalions.

Lining the decks of the transport as she steamed slowly down the harbor, the happy, war-seasoned veterans who participated in the capture of Metz and Beaulieu, spearheaded the Third Army into the Saar and cracked the Siegfried Line, were given a rousing welcome home.

The official welcome tug, gleaming with a new coat of paint, with a group of waving and cheering WACs aboard, went out to meet the Mariposa and escort her to her berth at Commonwealth Pier. An Army band on the dock played martial airs as the troops debarked.

Five of eight trains which left the pier for Camp Myles Standish carried the infantry personnel and two artillery battalions. The other train carried the headquarters staff and baggage.

Rich in color and courage is the story of the "Victory" Division and its men who jumped off from Normandy in the autumn of 1944.

It was after the 14-day battle for Metz, in which the 95th killed 1577 Germans, wounded 3546 and captured 6082 that the "Victory" doughboys headed for the Saar, to pull one of the slickest tricks of the war—crossing the river without the loss of a single man.

OPA

Black Market And YOU

the OPA hearing authority decides whether the offense was willful or not, prior to demanding settlement.

For an offense found not willful, the OPA customarily has demanded collection of the amount of the overcharge. This is known as single damages.

For an offense declared willful, the OPA has been demanding payment of three times the amount of the overcharge, with resort to the courts in the event the offender balks at payment.

Needless to say, most of such offenders have gladly settled their cases in this fashion.

Whether or not any of the offenders go back and repeat the violations is problematical.

In cases where the offenders went to court, either state or federal, fines as high as $5000 have been imposed in at least three cases, and jail terms up to six months have been imposed.

None of these latter have turned up as repeaters, but Regional OPA Enforcement Atty. Cornelius Moynihan says several such cases are being processed.

But the fact remains, as Moynihan himself says, that most of the violators prefer to settle claims against them out of court and avoid the delay which court action would entail.

The OPA also allows a violator to pay the claim in installments if he can prove that payment in a lump sum would be a financial hardship.

Such arrangements are made between the enforcement attorney and the violator.

Perhaps the OPA had the best of intentions in relieving the courts of some burden. But in its own interest, it would do better to process all violations through the courts, regardless of how much irritation it might cause the defendant.

Since June, 1943, the OPA has

Their Wedding Set for Next Sunday

Freed Pals to See Flier Take Bride

By PAULINE WARREN

Lt. Robert S. Shuman, 25, of Washington st., Brookline, an 8th Air Force bombardier, who planned his wedding while in a German prison camp, will realize his most cherished dream Tuesday night when he marries the girl who refused to believe he was killed when his plane was reported lost in flames.

Not only did she wait, certain he was alive, but four boys in the same German prison, Stalag Luft 1, who kept up their spirits by teasing him about his matrimonial intentions, will be there to see him wed. The entire group returned home within the past few days.

Lt. Shuman's fiancée is Miss Frances R. Brezner, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Brezner of Mandalay rd., Newton, Wellesley '43 graduate.

The ceremony will take place at 6 at the Kenners and will be followed by a reception in which the five ex-prisoners and one more will join in a toast.

Lt. Shuman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shuman, was on his 10th mission with the target an airfield in Denmark, when his plane was set afire by what he terms a lucky shot from a German fighter.

"The shot hit our gas tank in the right wing and flames spurted," he explained today. "We were then over the North Sea and quickly headed for land. It took us about six minutes to get back to land. I fell in an open field, hid my parachute and tried to make an old man understand me. But the German Wehrmacht had been watching the parachutes and they soon had me with a gun at my back."

"Our pilot was killed and the others were rounded up. After that it was the same dreary business—constant interrogations, and freezing in box cars while they took us from camp to camp, with no food but the Red Cross packages, and sleeping in dank cells."

When Lt. Shuman arrived at Stalag Luft 1, he found that his first pilot, Lt. Michael J. Stroff, Jr., of New York city, with whom he trained in New Mexico, was already a prisoner there.

American Eagles from Boston incarcerated there were Lt. Don Reynolds of Walpole, Lt. James Groblewski of Webster and Lt. Lester Jaffe of Dorchester.

All of them will attend the wedding, as will Lt. L. M. Barron of Brookline, a former schoolmate who was in another German camp, Stalag Luft 3.

Sift New Clues In Hub Murder

Baffled in their hunt for two men in naval uniform, suspects in the brutal slaying of Chase MacArthur, 61-year-old Foxboro schools superintendent, in a Carver st. Turkish bath, police plodded through a maze of evidence and clues today in their effort to identify the pair.

Capt. Louis A. DiSessa, of the Warren ave. station, said he had received no definite information yet from Navy Intelligence officers, who are checking on the names of the men in uniform, as signed on the register at the Turkish bath.

He also disclosed that reports from hotel owners that uniformed men, with names similar to those of the widely sought pair, had been signed on their registers in recent weeks. These reports are being checked.

Capt. DiSessa said officers probably would visit Foxboro today for further investigation and checking of effects in MacArthur's quarters there which might produce additional clues.

MacArthur, who was expected to retire shortly after 16 years of service in the Foxboro schools, was found sprawled across two beds in the Turkish bath Wednesday night. He had been brutally beaten and strangled.

Disclosure was made by Medical Examiner Timothy Leary that MacArthur died as a result of strangulation. His unclad body was found in room No. 38, adjoining room 37 which had been assigned to the educator shortly after the sailors had registered.

Meanwhile, relatives of the victim explained that MacArthur had been taking Turkish baths for several months on the advice of a Brockton doctor. He was suffering from a nervous disorder and overweight.

Italy Jail-Storming Rioters Quelled

4 Hurt as Car Crashes Window

Four men were injured today when a car out of control crashed into the plate glass window of a store in Hanover st., North End, narrowly missing a group of persons who had been standing in front of the store watching a dog chase a water rat.

John R. Moore, 21, Canadian merchant seaman, was arrested after the crash and is at the Marine Hospital in Brighton suffering head and chest injuries. He is charged with larceny of the auto.

As the car went out of control it struck another car parked at the curb before crashing the store window. Seated in this car were Vincent Consello, 40, Salem st., North End; Joseph Lonolo, 60, of

2 Girls Held In Date Brawl

Mildred Rolfe, 24, of C st., and Mary E. O'Neil of Baxter st., both of South Boston, today pleaded not guilty in South Boston court to private complaints charging them with assault and battery on two other South Boston girls.

Lorraine Urban and Helen Peale complained that Miss Rolfe, Miss O'Neil and a third girl not named in the complaint struck them while they were talking with a boy on a street corner.

Judge Leo Leary continued the case until July 6 at the request of police who said they wanted to pick up the third girl. Miss Rolfe and Miss O'Neil were held in $500 bonds each.

Firing Squad for Soldier Who Slew Wife, Sergeant

KINGMAN, Ariz., June 29 (AP) —Cpl. Thurman E. Laws, 25, former North Carolina farm boy, was convicted of murder by a general court martial at Kingman Army air field last night and ordered executed by a firing squad for stabbing to death his wife and T-Sgt. Waldeman A. Vernet, Jr., at a Kingman buffet Saturday night.

The verdict is subject to approval of higher authority, which will set the time and place of execution.

In almost two hours of testimony at the day-long trial, Corporal Laws told the board of seven officers he believed for about two weeks prior to the slayings that his wife and Sergeant Vernet were having an affair, and frequently found Vernet talking with her at a buffet at which she was employed.

He claimed he saw them in an embrace at another buffet Saturday night, was unable on two occasions to persuade his wife to accompany him home, obtained a knife at his home and stabbed both when he found them in the darkness behind the building.

Other testimony developed Mrs. Laws was searching for car keys which she had lost.

90-Mi. Death Race Won by 3 Cars

PHILADELPHIA, June 29 (AP)—A 90-mile race against death, in which three cars were required to speed a 3-year-old boy to Philadelphia for an emergency operation, ended happily.

Robert Swendel, electrical engineer employed at York, Pa., borrowed an automobile to take his son, George, to a hospital here after a peanut had become lodged in the boy's lungs.

After 25 miles a tire blew and the child was transferred to a police car. Twenty-five miles farther that car broke down because of overheating. A second police car, accompanied by siren-screaming motorcycles, finished the trip.

Dr. Louis H. Clerf, who performed the operation, says the boy's condition is good.

the fatal shot was fired at those range" or, as James testified, the coroner continued, "Mrs. Stevens advanced upon the fallen body and fired the fatal shot."

James Kovacs told the coroner at the inquest he and his brother were surprised as they waited in the Milton living room for the return of Faith by the sudden appearance of Mrs. Stevens, with whom they were unacquainted.

Albert told her why they were there. Mrs. Stevens said Faith was not home. Albert, who had been seated at the piano moved toward the stairway to assure himself that Faith was not upstairs with the children. Both were looking toward the stairway. James swore, when, without warning Mrs. Stevens opened fire with a pistol they had not previously observed.

Albert was staggered by the first shot, James said, and as the older brother ran to his assistance, Mrs. Stevens fired twice again while James was holding Albert in his arms, demanding as she pumped the last shot into him, said James:

"Now, will you get him out of here."

Mrs. Stevens, divorcee and mother of a 6-year-old daughter when she married Maj. G. Ralsey Stevens, 3d, at Alliance, Neb., Nov. 6, 1943, has been held in default of $50,000 bail on a charge of manslaughter since the shooting.

Mrs. Stevens' father, J. O. Dumas, a Pampa, Tex., policeman, visited her at the jail yesterday on his arrival here, but there was no word as to whether her husband, Maj. G. Ralsey Stevens, III, had been given an opportunity to start home from Germany.

Catholics Assail Army Textbook

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—The Committee of Catholics for Human Rights, a nationwide organization, asked War Secretary Stimson to investigate use of material which it described as anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic in a U. S. Armed Forces Institute correspondence course.

Dr. Emanuel Chapman, committee chairman, said in a letter to Stimson: "Material employed in this course renders a disservice to the cause of national unity by allowing unsubstantiated and un-American presumptions to be circulated among the armed forces."

Chapman said the protested material which his office described as contained in a textbook in an English composition course (C-581) expressed "anti-Semitism, anti-Catholicism and anti-minority attitudes."

The article in question, the committee said, was a chapter entitled "Meiking P" from a book published in 1927.

60,000 Strikers To Resume Jobs

By Associated Press

More than 60,000 of the 93,000 workers idle yesterday in strikes and work stoppages prepared to return to their jobs today, but tentative plans are still in the air.

Overhead was the first time since were additional walkouts for the idle up to the 40,000 mark, and threats of strikes by three railroads and at 18 Western Electric Co. plants.

The biggest improvement in labor conditions was in Detroit, where most of the city's 45,000 idle CIO United Automobile workers were expected back on the job.

Another 15,000 strikes in 10 glass plants in 10 cities agreed to end their week-old strike.

Yank Hangmen Avenue U. S. Flier

REINHARDT, Germany, June 29 (AP)—Three German civilians were hanged at dawn today by American Army executioners for killing an American aviator after he parachuted to earth from a flaming bomber last Aug. 15.

The hanging concluded the first civilian war crime case brought to trial on German soil since the end of the war.

The three men hanged were Peter Back, Peter John and Matthias Gierens, convicted respectively of shooting, clubbing and hammering an unknown flier to death. A fourth defendant, Matthias Krein, also was sentenced to death, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, commander of the 15th Army.

The hangings were carried out by a traveling team of two Army executioners who already had performed 70 hangings. They are M-Sgt. John C. Woods, former executioner at Texas State Prison, and S-Sgt. Thomas Robinson of Bronx, N. Y., a baker in civilian life.

Coast Guard Lifts Harbor Ban

Boston Harbor was virtually back to its peacetime status today, with the Coast Guard surrendering control over shipping moving in and out of the port through the regular channels.

Ships now have free access to Nantasket Roads and the North and South channels. Only a small restricted area remains in which anchorage and fishing are banned.

The Coast Guard now is trying to work out a plan to relax wartime restrictions over traffic through Cape Cod Canal, and has invited shipping interests to make recommendation.

U. S. Poles Protest Communist Regime

By DAVID SENTNER

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The new provisional Polish government—supposedly carrying out the Yalta agreement for a truly democratic regime today was branded a Communist government in a telegram to President Truman by the co-ordinating committee of American Polish Associations in the East.

The Chief Executive was urged to refuse recognition to this new regime "set up in Moscow to accomplish the Sovietization of Poland under the guise of democracy."

The co-ordinating committee, representing millions of Polish-Americans, messaged that the few non-Communist leaders in the new regime consented to join this government under duress and under the shadow of the mock trial of 16 Polish leaders in Moscow.

A memorandum substantiating these charges will be submitted next Thursday by the co-ordinating committee.

Sixteen members of the new government are holdovers from the old completely Communist regime.

Inasmuch as Moscow has shown no signs of removing the NKVD (Soviet secret police), the possibility that there will be a free election is regarded as wishful thinking.

Capitol Hill believes that formal recognition of the new Warsaw government will be delayed as long as possible in an attempt to keep the Polish problem from endangering Senate ratification of the world security organization charter.

Boy, 3, Ends Hunger Strike

PORTLAND, Ore., June 29 (AP)—A 3-year-old boy who began a hunger strike Sunday in grief over his lost dog yielded to his parents' plea to eat—but the family cat continued disdain his bowl.

The black cat, which used to sleep between the lost dog's paws, took two laps of milk and then walked away from his bowl.

Vets of 182d Given Homecoming Hope

WITH THE AMERICAN INFANTRY DIVISION In The Philippines (Delayed) (AP)—Nearly three and a half years of sweating and fighting in the jungle hells of the Pacific lay behind the Massachusetts 182d Infantry Regiment when, following the German surrender, the War Department announced its plan for readjustment of prisoners.

Just homecoming months, when the regiment swings into high gear, the 182d may lose much of its original combat identity.

There was no reason of the kind that saved them in the States. In fact, they have long hopes of winning home in the not too distant future.

The men who go back to Boston and Worcester and Fall River have left a proud record behind them. Written in the annals of the Soldiers and across the jungles, fields, and mountains of the Philippines.

There is an achievement that can proudly be added to those that former soldiers of the regiment wrote into history at Bunker Hill, the Maine, and the Argentine Forest.

To the names of famous battles of the past they have added Guadalcanal, Bougainville, Leyte, and Cebu.

When the 182d arrived in New Caledonia in 1943, it became a part of the new-famous American Division.

Early in November of that year the 182d landed at Guadalcanal to reinforce the First Marine Division and a regiment of the American.

Nine months of "rest"—which in non-military language means gruelling jungle training—followed when the American left for the Fiji Islands.

Early in Christmas Eve, 1943, the division returned to Guadalcanal. Not until 11 months later was the regiment ordered

WORST ERROR IN 50 YEARS

THE Ways and Means Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature has recommended a $5,000,000 bond issue to save the Port of Boston.

This is a COMPLETELY INADEQUATE SUM.

It will not accomplish a third of the work that must be done.

It will send our essential commerce to New York and other ports. It will doom thousands of our people to idleness and doles.

It is the worst example of political shortsightedness on Beacon Hill in fifty years.

It is like saying to our rival ports:

"You can take our prosperity. We don't want it."

The Ways and Means Committee did not hesitate to recommend two appropriations totaling $30,000,000 for new sewers.

THIRTY MILLION DOLLARS FOR SEWERS AND FIVE MILLION DOLLARS FOR THE PORT ON WHICH THE PROSPERITY OF THE WHOLE STATE DEPENDS!

It is doubtful if there ever was a more tragic illustration of inconsistency in the history of the world.

THE members of the House of Representatives and the members of the Senate should display more common sense and wisdom.

NOT ONE DOLLAR LESS THAN $15,000,000 SHOULD BE APPROPRIATED FOR THE PORT.

As a matter of fact, the APPROPRIATION SHOULD BE $50,000,000.

We must keep our factories open.

We must keep our people employed.

We must have incomes instead of breadlines and charitable handouts.

These desirable and necessary things are certainly worth $15,000,000.

The attitude of the individual legislator towards the Boston Port Bill is an ACCURATE TEST of how much he really cares for the people and their welfare.

If he wants another depression in Massachusetts and another period of stagnation, he will vote for the $5,000,000 appropriation.

BUT IF HE WANTS GROWTH, EXPANSION AND THE KIND OF PROSPERITY THAT WILL GIVE OUR PEOPLE STEADY EMPLOYMENT AT AMERICAN WAGES, HE WILL VOTE TO RESTORE THE $15,000,000 APPROPRIATION.

Let every member stand up and be counted on this important issue.

The people have a right to know who are their friends and who are NOT their friends.

If the $5,000,000 recommendation prevails, and another depression comes, the legislators responsible for restricting the port's growth will never be able to escape the blame.

They will be accused of dooming millions of people to idleness wherever they go or whatever they do.

When business and jobs that belong in Massachusetts go to other parts of the country, these legislators will be condemned.

LET US appropriate the FULL FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS.

Let it be said that we did everything in our power to save Massachusetts and her principal port.

It will be a self-liquidating investment.

Every cent will be paid back WITH EVER-INCREASING DIVIDENDS IN THE FORM OF MORE JOB OPPORTUNITIES AND HIGHER WAGES.

Which is infinitely more than can be said for the sewers into which the Ways and Means Committee would sink thirty million dollars.

AND WHAT NEED WILL WE HAVE FOR THE SEWERS IF WE CLOSE WHAT COULD BE THE GREATEST PORT IN THE WORLD AND SHUT DOWN THE IMPORTANT INDUSTRIES THAT THE PORT IS SUPPORTING?

The Ways and Means Committee has made a most serious mistake.

Let us hope and pray that the members of the Legislature won't be so foolhardy as to repeat the mistake.

DO JUNE WEDDINGS result in more happy marriages than those of any other month? Seems somebody should have reported on this. I shall have our Horses & Women Department experts look into it. Anyway, the most marriages still take place in the allegedly "merry month of June." As is the annual custom of this department, we shall for the benefit of June brides and their mates present a few remarks by persons of experience on the subject of marriage. Said Madame De Rieux: "Marriage is a lottery in which men stake their liberty and women their happiness." Henry Ward Beecher observed: "Well married a man is winged; ill-matched he is shackled." Claimed Publius Syrus: "Mind, not body, makes marriage lasting." Advised Calderon: "A woman needs a stronger head than her own for council. Therefore she should marry." R. L. Stevenson said: "If they only married when they fell in love most people would die unloved." Advised Samuel Johnson: "Limit your fault-finding, ladies. No husband likes to live under the eye of perpetual disapprobation."

PASSING BY: Lt. Charles "Buddy" Rogers, Third husband of Mary Pickford. Rogers is also fourth vice-president of the Buddy Club of America. Buddy De Sylva is president of this organization and Buddy Baer is vice-president... Bill Thorpe, son of the great Indian athlete, Jim Thorpe, Jim is now at sea with the Merchant Marine... Charlie Hale, veteran newspaper retailer, has been a "newsboy" over 50 years. Started on Park Row, Manhattan, in the '90s. Has a scrapbook of photographs and news stories of nearly every famous newsboy in the United States. Charlie is going to retire next year and settle down on a houseboat he owns on the Mississippi. He plans to spend the rest of his days eating, sleeping and fishing.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:
Q—As a San Franciscan I find your comments on food presumptuous. What does a Brooklynite know about food? There isn't one really good restaurant in Brooklyn. A Gage & Toller's in Brooklyn is one of the world's fine restaurants. And it is as good as it used to be, which is more than I can say for some San Francisco restaurants. Anyway, a Brooklynite doesn't have to depend on restaurants to get good food. Brooklyn girls are all born cooks. Therefore, Brooklyn men are well-fed at home.

PLEASE NOTE: Stars and Stripes, U. S. Army paper, takes Gen. Patton to task for saying to the kiddies of a Sunday school class: "You are the soldiers and the nurses of the next war." The rebuke is justified. Criticism of soldiers that comes from soldiers usually is a good soldier, but he shouldn't make speeches. He is one of those who gets staid in the line in oratory and newly always says the wrong thing.

LOVE AND MOSQUITOES: Mosquitoes have love affairs. Or so claims a scientist. He also states the female mosquito has a very provocative love call. When the male mosquito hears this love call he gets very excited and answers in a hurry. The aforementioned scientist, Dr. Morton Kahn of Cornell University ignores the romantic aspect of this situation and is interested only in its practical advantages. He is making recordings of the love calls of female mosquitoes. With these he hopes to lure male mosquitoes to their doom and rid certain sections of these pests. So you see, even a mosquito can die for love. However, I think the mosquitoes may fool the good doctor. They might know the "love call" they hear is a record. You can't fool a dog with a recording of a dog bark, can you? Yes, sir, when the doctor turns his transcription on in a New Jersey swamp the mosquitoes in their own language, may say: "Lay off, fellows, it's a transcription!"

ASIDES: All young old-timers remember the red-haired Pearl White in the celebrated "Cliff Hanger" role in "The Perils of Pauline." Paul Panzer and Crane Wilbur of the east of that serial are still active. Milton Berle, comedian, was a child actor in it. Incidentally, the film was produced in Jersey City... The big foot record for males is held by a man whose feet measure 12.3 inches. That's what one statistician claims. Seems to me I have seen men with larger feet than that.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
NEW YORK, June 29—A matter that I intend to take up with myself one day soon is this little business of my attitude.

Several acquaintances have said to me lately that although to know me is to love me and I have a heart of gold, I do myself a great injustice and deny the world a measure of sweetness and laughter which it easily could absorb.

In consultation with Westbrook Pegler my conscience, I have decided that there is some ground for this criticism but with several extenuating conditions, among them the undeniable fact that quite a number of Communist and other Left-Wing publications and some of their orators have been downright mean to me.

Moreover, in the last few years, I have heartily ignored as completely unimportant frequent intimations that I am anti-labor because I have run a temper over corrupt union leaders and behavior and that I hate foreigners because I think we should bar the doors until we, ourselves have jobs, opportunities and homes to live in.

It has seemed to me that the questions whether I am anti-labor and whether I think all immigrants are devils are beside the point and tend to substitute a personality for issues as the subject of discussion.

I THINK, however, that my little embarrassment has been the result of conditions that have had a similar effect on all of us, such as the long depression, which was a nice, unpolished euphemism for panic, our politics, the Roosevelt experiments in gentle revolution and, finally, the war, and the concurrent decline in sports and other grim frivolities on which we used to expend our passions.

In other words, aren't we all and, so, why pick on me?

It has not been altogether good for us that we discovered the United States Constitution in these years since the passing of the era of wonderful nonsense and the Monroe Doctrine and took to reading the opinions of the United States Supreme Court, some of which have been no less acrimonious than my own or those of Harold L. Ickes.

IT MAY HELP my explanation to point out that even actors, not content with the undeserved privilege of the vote for which they, like sculptors and cartoonists, are obviously unqualified, have become statesmen with solemn missions and social consciousness and that Joe Louis, a great prize fighter and exemplary character, has been exploited to make us aware that Negroes and white people suffer mutually from lack of acquaintance and mutual aloofness.

I dare say that if we could track them down we would find that the grotesque herd of professional wrestlers whose hilarities in a thousand rings around the country used to rouse our citizens to harmless and fleeting hatred as they thrashed and whinnied in the sly mockery of their trade are now political, ideological and economic partisans of genuine ferocity and given to debates on the poll tax.

ACCUSE ME, IF YOU WILL, of endorsing backwardness, indifference and ignorance, but let me ask, in return, whether we were not much happier when our rages involved questions whether the referee gave Tunney a long count in Chicago or Dempsey hit Jack Sharkey low or Babe Ruth would have hit 60 home runs in the days before they quit stuffing the official ball with possum fuzz and substituted that of the kangaroo.

Are we happier for knowing the history and all the interpretations of the Fourteenth Amendment or for having heard angry men and women of both sides call one another liars, Communists and Nazis in the last Presidential campaign?

In this connection, let me say that, in prying over some of the back numbers for September and October recently, I concluded that the vote was dictated not by intelligent decision on political and moral issues, but by a pure, vindictive hope that one or the other would be crushed, discredited for all time as a historic mountebank and driven to obscurity in desperate humiliation.

As I say, I have taken inventory and found quite low my stock of merry jape and ready wit and am considering steps to correct this, but, for the defense, if it be any defense to say that one has practically the entire human race as partners in crime, let me ask again, aren't we all?

Mother Strangles 2 Because of Dreams

NEW YORK, June 29 (INS)—Homicide charges were lodged today against a 32-year-old mother who tearfully told police she had strangled her two young children.

After hearing Mrs. Mary Smith testify that she had loved them very much, Bronx Dist. Atty. McManus joined the double killing "strictly a wartime tragedy brought about by conditions of war."

Word of the death of Regina, 2, and John E. reached officials early when the mother and one of her brothers, Naval Lt. Eugene McManus, walked into a Bronx police station.

"This lady is my sister," McManus told the desk sergeant. "She has just killed her two children."

Mrs. Smith, whose husband, Edward, is a lieutenant in the Maritime Service and now at sea, slumped straight ahead, but nodded.

Then she described how she had seen a face of death from her gina's frock, stuffed it into Johnny's mouth, then held his nose with her fingers until he was faint.

After a while, she said, she did the same thing to the sister.

Mrs. Smith said she didn't want to kill them, but lately I've been having bad dreams. In them, I see my husband or one of my brothers with their legs or arms shot off. It made me nervous."

She was sent to Bellevue Hospital for observation.

Beauty

Mint Julep Bath for You

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

THERE GOES THAT PHONE tingling your hopes that the Big Moment is on the sending end of an invitation for a delightful twosome spent in the spirited environs of a smart dine and dance emporium . . . or at the theater . . . any place where joy is on the beam.

And if it is, you're thrilled beyond words . . . and presto you start your beauty routine. And, most naturally, with a refreshing, awakening, body-invigorating tub . . . to pick you up . . . keep you cool . . . and set you on the qui vive for a grand and glorious evening. These are not such fabulous, fantastic days . . . that we mortals are not doing things in the routine, ordinary way. Everything we do is pitched high . . . as though we are riding on the tail end of a rainbow. And, it's fun, isn't it?

Even the bath ritual is a production . . . and we girls who like the feel of lovely things . . . who yearn for the artistry in life and living . . . as a matter of course . . . glamorize even our bath-taking. For something out of this world to glorify your ablution . . . and to make you feel like the proverbial million dollars . . . we give you the deep green with a minty fragrance contents of a bowling-pin-shaped bottle . . . to make you as fresh and tingling as an icy mint julep . . . and to inject you with a feeling of leisure-richness similar to the life those ballyhooed southern colonels enjoy on stretched-out verandahs and that drink-that-refreshes in their fastidiously fine hand.

MAKES YOU FEEL COOL AND CAREFREE

It's an effervescent, frosty, foamy bubble bath that's whipped up with only one tablespoon of this ocean-green-liquid concoction . . . to provide you with a layer of creamy suds in which to relax to your heart's content before drolling up for the gay moments ahead. The fresh, invigorating fragrance permeates the bath and you . . . and makes you feel cool and carefree . . . and who doesn't yearn for that kind of a feeling these days?

Whatever array of bath preparations you already have . . . this one is a most welcome and different kind of addition. Even the he-man in your family wouldn't be averse to using it himself . . . for there's nothing sussy about this green minty fragrance. And, if you have been invited for a week-end . . . nothing could be more perfect as a thank-you gift for your hostess.

For the name of this mint julep bath delight, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR "those endearing young charms" . . . still beautiful lyrics for a beautiful love song . . . and as a body pepper-upper de luxe . . . we give you a grape tub . . . quickly whipped up before date-time with an effervescent, deep green fragrant liquid . . . to make you as fresh and tingling as an icy mint julep . . . and just as welcome anywhere. Captivating RKO Star Laraine Day might be you at the telephone planning an evening of gaiety . . . for which a de luxe bath is most essential.

Only the Best for Your Baby

By MARTHA LEE

MANY PEOPLE having their first experience with tiny babies are amazed at the large proportion of an infant's time spent in the elementary activities of eating and sleeping. Nevertheless, he is at this time learning habits and attitudes that influence his reactions and, therefore, his health and happiness in later years. Therefore, an aim you will want to keep in mind is to develop in him proper habits that will stand him in good stead through a lifetime.

The first essential is regularity. Always put the baby in bed at his bed-time. If he cries and you know he is suffering no physical discomfort, let him cry it out. Give the baby a definite time for his afternoon and morning naps, and if he does not sleep during this nap period, leave him alone and quiet. This rest is good for his nervous system and growth. Leaving him alone teaches him that when he goes to bed he should sleep.

AT FEEDING TIME

In like manner the baby must be made to understand that feeding time is the proper time for eating and no other activity. Take him into a quiet room where his attention is in no way distracted.

When introducing a new food, one's manner should be matter-of-fact and confident, never hurried. Also, of course, one should take special precautions to see that the new food appears at its best and has a good natural flavor. Watch these points particularly when giving the baby his first experience with vegetables in the form of strained food. This is a titration to the diet comes at about the age of 5 months, depending upon the recommendation of the doctor.

If you are careful to make pleasant every situation in which the child is offered these foods, he develops a liking for the ones that are "good for him."

SERVING APPETIZINGLY

Start feeding the strained foods by offering the baby only a teaspoonful or less at one time, thinning it with water so it has a consistency similar to the foods he is used to. Then you may rapidly increase the size of the servings.

Be sure these first strained foods are as appetizing in color and taste as they can be. It is a good idea for this reason to get the canned strained foods, which are prepared under scientifically controlled conditions. With a supply of these on hand, you can always have the baby's feedings on time with little fuss or bother. All you need to do is heat them over hot water.

STRAINED FOOD VARIETY

The 14 different kinds of canned strained foods offer an excellent variety for the child to learn to like at this early age. Strained carrots and strained spinach will probably be the first of the vegetables recommended by the doctor—then strained vegetable soup, strained mixed greens, asparagus, and beans will be added, one at a time.

The vegetables used in preparing the canned strained foods are carefully selected from crops grown from pedigreed seeds, then rushed quickly to the scientific kitchens in the vicinity, where they are canned at the peak of their perfection.

CEREAL AND FRUITS, TOO

When the doctor recommends cereal for the baby's diet, you will find a canned strained one already prepared for him, which is a nutritious mixture of wheat, oats, farina, whole wheat and oats. About the time when the strained vegetables come into the picture, strained fruits also may be suggested by the doctor. Then it is, you will be glad for the canned strained fresh apricots so rich in vitamins to which apple sauce has been added, reducing the tartness of the fruit.

Also, canned strained prunes prepared with a little lemon juice added will teach your child to enjoy this valuable fruit. And baby's first meat food might well be the convenient canned strained beef and liver soup.

With so large a variety of good food desires impressed upon your child at this early age, you will have very little trouble getting him to eat correctly during the remainder of his childhood. But be sure to be regular with his meals.

TIME OUT FOR FEEDING!

Fashion

HERE'S an unusual after 5 o'clock dress . . . a cotton top trimmed with sequins for the glittering gaiety of the evening ahead. Black and white checked gingham has been used for the bodice . . . and styled with a deep U-shaped neckline, and cap sleeves affords ample coolth and comfort for the stuffy hot-weather evenings. White sequins give the fabric a festive look . . . dramatic counterpart for the heavy black faille skirt with back interest. Warner Star Joan Leslie poses.

MRS. BECKMAN.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Thursday—As I said yesterday, the shops at the Warwick State Training School for Boys are very beautifully equipped, and the boys who work in them were enthusiastic about the possibilities of learning a trade.

But one of our party, who looked in at the carpenter shop, said it appeared as though it was not often used. On inquiry, we found that at present there was difficulty in getting materials for the boys to work with.

I could not help thinking of a camp for convalescent soldiers which I saw in a valley some-where in New Caledonia. Two young Red Cross workers were teaching handicrafts. Materials to work with were scarce, probably somewhat scarcer than in Warwick, N. Y., at the present time.

But the Red Cross workers had taken a little truck and scoured the island; and everyone who wanted to work was at work. I wonder if a similar amount of ingenuity could produce some materials even here in the year 1945?

WE'RE SHOWN a room in which commercial art was being taught, and were told that about six boys usually made up the class. Only such boys as showed talent enough to make it probable that they would earn a living at this type of work were allowed to spend here the five hours a day allotted to the project.

When we asked whether artistic expression sometimes did not have therapeutic value for boys without special talent, we were told that undoubtedly it had, and even much disturbed children improved when they had the release of artistic expression.

Nevertheless, the usual class was eight and it was limited to boys showing real talent.

I inquired whether band music or group singing were a part of the training in the arts, since music and dancing would probably be two of the most popular forms of artistic expression where the percentage of colored boys is so high. I could not find that either one was a part of the training or the recreational program.

WE LEARNED that one bath a week is the rule in the cottages—at least, it is the rule in the one our party visited. I don't see why, in these days, there has to be a rule curtailing baths unless the water supply is low.

Dr. Williams has always seemed to me a charming person, with impeccable theories. Yet I came away with the feeling that someone in authority was showing very little real love and understanding toward the boys.

Of course, there are bad boys. But what has made them so?

Dainty Embroidered Suit

By BETTINA BEDWELL

MOST WOMEN, and this includes a lot of designers, I'm afraid, think of embroidery in terms of brilliance and glitter. But there are embroidered models around that have all the rich elegance that comes from such encrustation and at the same time are very quiet in tone. I have seen cocktail suits that are embroidered from stem to stern and without any blazing effect at all. They're wonderful.

Sample of this kind of suit is the model sketched. It is from Carrie Munn, and she has taken a very simple navy blue crepe suit, treated it to an all-over pattern of black jet beads in a leaf pattern. The result is a grand suit with real elegance. Carrie Munn puts a pink tulle jabot in the neckline of the suit and adds a wide navy straw hat to complete the picture.

daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Gunning of Arlington, was recently married to Ensign Paul J. Muller, USNR, of New York. The bride was graduated from LaSalle Junior College and Ensign Muller was graduated from Dartmouth and attended Harvard. Ensign Muller is stationed.

GUESTS at the Waldorf-Astoria are Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Chandler of West Newton and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Fay of Boston.

RECEIVING birth congratulations are Lt. William Floyd Haneman, USNR, and Mrs. Haneman (Elizabeth Breed) for a daughter, Elizabeth, born June 26, at Richardson House. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Theodore Haneman of Hewitt, L. I., and Mr. and Mrs. A. Francis Greed of Brookline.

House to Speed Succession Bill

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—In an unusual burst of speed the House called up the Truman-backed presidential succession bill today with proponents determined to send it on to the Senate before nightfall.

In three days the measure—making the House speaker next in line for the presidency—has advanced from a rough committee draft to a finished bill, ready for final action.

Despite the hurried House pace, proponents conceded privately they have little hope of such quick action in the Senate, and opponents were confident the measure never would become law.

E Bond Buying Still Far Behind

Massachusetts corporations have more than doubled their quota in the Seventh War Loan drive, rolling up a total of $336,800,000, the War Finance Committee announced today.

Tomorrow is the last day for the purchase at par of four marketable bond issues and also the last day when June 1 interest will apply on purchases of Series E, F and G bonds, which together with Series C savings notes will remain on sale through July 7.

Corporation purchases in the state through June 27, with bonds still purchasable for three days, amounted to 202.5 per cent of the $462,000,000 quota for this type of buying, comparing favorably with the national total of 205.6 per cent of the $7,000,000,000 quota through the same date.

Only in E bond sales has Massachusetts failed to keep pace with the national average, the War Finance Committee said, such sales through June 26 amounting to $91,700,000, or 65.5 per cent of the state's $140,000,000 goal, compared to a national rate of 75.4 per cent.

In total sales to individuals the state has reached $215,000,000, or 90.4 per cent of its $238,000,000 quota.

1100-Ship Sale Up to Congress

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—More than 1100 fast, modern merchant ships will be available for disposition by the Maritime Commission if Congress enacts legislation recommended by the House merchant marine committee.

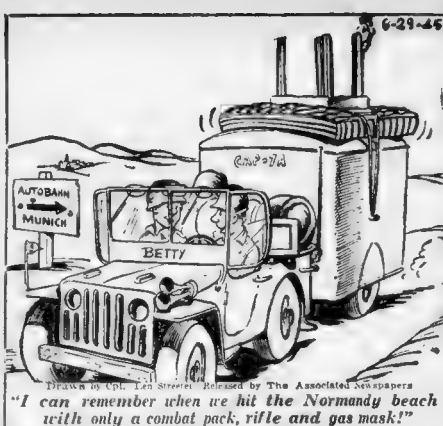

They are exclusive of an estimated 2700 Liberty ships, 611 tankers and close to 300 cargo vessels and tankers now assigned to the military.

The figures were made public today as the committee pressed for early House action on legislation blueprinting the method of disposal and restricting sales so that non-owners may have difficulty obtaining any of the surplus first-class ships built during the war.

ing to go to the States to visit with you in September."

"That's great. We'll all be so happy to see her! How's she doing there?"

"There has been a big improvement since V-E Day. We are getting along much better. I've found a number of good eating places and many of your friends over here have been unusually nice to me. I've been entertained royally."

"What's going on in England of particular interest?"

"There is a lot of interest in the election. Most people think that Churchill is going to win, but a lot of the campaign has swung to the left. There's a lot of Socialism over here."

"They think the Tories will win but will lose a lot of seats to the Labor party."

"If they win, it will be on account of Churchill's personal popularity."

"Is housing a big issue in the campaign?"

"Yes, it's playing a large part. People are thinking of the homes they lost."

"How's the night life? Are the people looking for entertainment?"

"Not much. The people seem tired and want to rest, although they are beginning to smile again. They think most of the election, of gasoline and the things hard to get, although many now are getting out to the beaches and want a little fun."

"I suppose you met a lot of my friends?"

"Yes, I did, dad. I have travelled with many of them all over England. In July, after the election, I plan to go to Ireland and to Germany. I'll wire you when I leave and keep you posted where I am in case you want me to look up your friends."

"Are you satisfied that Kickie really is all right?"

"Yes, she's got a lot of friends here and they all have been swell to her through her troubles. You've been worrying about us, now is your own health, and mother's, too?"

"We are fine. Incidentally, they gave the medal out for Joe the other day."

"How did mother take it?"

"She stood it well."

Jack then asked concerning the health of each member of his

Port Backers Challenge Slash

Declaring that the future of the Port of Boston and New England industry was at stake, business and civic leaders met today to challenge the action of the House ways and means committee in slashing the proposed appropriation in the Port Authority bill from $15,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Declaring that the reduction came as a "big shock and disappointment," Jay R. Benton, chairman of the Greater Boston Development Committee, summoned his group to meet today "to decide what action we will take."

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, member of the Boston Port Authority, declared that the blame for "this wrecking of the Boston port upon which the rise or fall of our State depends" lay with the "Republican-controlled Legislature."

At the same time, Ralph E. Flanders, chairman of the Massachusetts Committee for Port Development, warned that the whole program for the expansion of the port was seriously jeopardized.

Flanders asserted that unless the Legislature grants the full $15,000,000 the entire plan for the development of the port may have to be abandoned.

Andy Russell Stars at Boston

By PEGGY DOYLE

Sprouts . . . not Swooners . . . are busting out all over America in tribute to the nation's newest singing sensation, 24-year-old Andy Russell.

Andy, whose dark hair is wavy and whose teeth gleam like Neons when he parts his nice olive-skinned face in song, is presently appearing at the RKO Boston. He is sharing the star billing with Raymond Scott and his orchestra and the incomparable Pied Pipers. At the same time, his is increasing, with every note, the membership of the local Russell Sprouts fan club . . . there were 350 throughout the country at the latest count.

Sprouts, in case you care, are appreciative but not fanatical fans. They gasp a little, applaud a lot. But swoon and shake the balcony and chandeliers? Not at all.

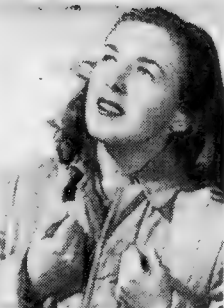

Russell's vitamin-rich tones, from the first bar of his opening number, "What a Difference a Day Makes," clicked with the RKO Boston's first-show audience. "My Heart Sings" and "Magic Is the Moonlight" slayed them. "Don't Blame Me," with the Pied Pipers, pleased the ears, too.

Finishing his stint with a turn at the drums is not your show reviewer's idea of accounting the positive. With his voice and personality, Andy Russell should leave them with a song.

Andy's initial appearance is news but the Raymond Scott orchestra music is out of this world every time we hear it.

The Scott specialties are "Toonerville Trolley" and "Powerhouse." Both numbers evoked terrific response.

In the harmony department, the Pied Pipers stand on their own pipes.

COUNTER ATTACK—Marguerite Chapman plays the part of a Partisan in the Paul Muni starrer at the Tremont and Old South theaters.

Skeets Gallagher Sets New Mark in Comedy Hit Role

With "Good Night, Ladies" entering its 14th week here on Monday evening, Skeets Gallagher will be able to check off his 1400th performance in the Plymouth Theater's popular farce.

Comedian Gallagher's current co-starring partner is Stanley Rell, a Broadway favorite. Throughout the play's career, Skeets has shared the spotlight with five other familiar stage and screen funnymen. Buddy Ebsen and Skeets created the starring roles in the original Pacific Coast company and came on to Chicago to attain a 100-week engagement.

Next was Stuart Erwin, who succeeded Ebsen when the latter joined the Coast Guard, and later quit to fulfill a film contract. Benny Baker followed Erwin, concluding the second year's tour to be replaced by the screen's Jimmy Ellison in the Broadway run. Ellison was recalled to Hollywood and his successor, John Hubbard, called by Uncle Sam during the local engagement, was replaced by Bell.

The sensational Lili St. Cyr heads the burlesque revue opening today at the Old Howard. There will be a special midnight show tonight, starring comics Mike Sachs and Frank Silk with Miss St. Cyr. There will be added acts for the big midnight show planned for the pre-Fourth of July festivities.

Army Fumbles Death Reports to GI Families

By AUSTEN LAKE

MOST DEPRESSING PHASE of this job is the many letters from wives and mothers of soldiers missing or killed in action. These come almost in rubber stamp form: "Sir— I only had one telegram from the Adjutant General, nothing more. I have tried to get some detailed information through the Red Cross or by writing to my boy's unit commander. But I have heard nothing. Please, how can I find out what happened? It would mean some comfort."

I have exactly sixty-two such letters on my desk, accumulated in late months. In addition several dozen mothers and wives have called at my office—helpless and hopeless. I can't do much!

There is no Army regulation which requires a unit commander to write particulars of a soldier's death to the family. It is left to the CO to make his own ground rules and in some cases it was strictly verboten for an officer to write detailed account of any man's death, or even answer family inquiries. I remember the little Fifth Division chaplain just before his outfit jumped the Rhine saying, "I don't care if they court-martial me. When I get any inquiry about a boy's death from his family, I'm going to write them."

Col. Cohen Wrote His Own Obituaries

A PROPORTION OF OFFICERS did just that—scrupulously. One of them was Lt. Col. Harold Cohen of the 10th Combat Infantry, Fourth Division. I know because I saw him do it time and again. Whenever there was a lapse in action—and with an armored spearhead that wasn't often, Cohen wrote the families of the men killed in his command, or ordered them written. And over the months between D and V-E days his death toll was enormous. He was that kind of guy!

So today I have a letter from Mrs. Elmer H. Maker of Malden, saying: "Last Sunday my husband and I attended the memorial services at Malden High School where you were the speaker. Our only son was a radio operator with the 10th Infantry Battalion, Fourth Armor. He was killed in action Nov. 14 near Brubelling, France. We received a letter from his commanding officer, signed Maj. Harold Cohen."

"Could that be the same Colonel Cohen of whom you spoke last Sunday, saying what a fine man he was? I would like to feel that the man in charge of my son's battalion was that sort. Somehow it would make me feel happier."

That's a mother grasping at any flimsy straw she can find. Some small contact, some little hyphen with her soldier's past. Yes! That is Harold Cohen, since become an oak leaf colonel. And I will say that if I were to name the outstanding personality among all the officers I have met in this war, it would be a toss-up between Col. Creighton Abrams and Harold Cohen—hard-boiled, ruthless killers both, who burned through the heart of Germany like fire through a corncrib. Yet in the quiet intervals between combat they were philosophical, courteous men concerned with the common humanities.

If Cohen, amid the welter of his savage tasks, found time to write the families of his fallen men, so could all other combat commanders. Some did. Some were killed or wounded themselves, and couldn't. Most just didn't take the time!

The Army, of course, is coldly impersonal in its human dealings! Men, by the very nature of war's cruel craft, become lots of human merchandise to be sifted and shipped to the lines on order, like stock from a Sears-Roebuck warehouse. Do you need 200 sound and solid riflemen, some slightly used? We got 'em! Can you use 50 tank-destroyer veterans? Here they are. Sounds brutal, eh? But war's brutal and the Army is impersonal. That's why I've been yelling about enforcing a tough, enduring peace. So we won't have any more war!

Why Not Bureau in Each Regiment?

ARMY REGULATION 600-550 SAYS simply, "Letters of sympathy will be prepared by the Adjutant General on receipt of a man's death from his commanding officer." So the AGO sends out its stereotyped telegram, "The Adjutant General regrets to inform you . . . further details as available." And there usually it ends. Whatever later messages come are rarely any more illuminating—just date, place and verification.

Why can't the Army give a dead soldier's family the comfort and courtesy of a detailed report instead of a brief terse formality and leaving the rest to random? There is no reason why platoon or company commanders should not be REQUIRED to write personally, or detail the task of writing the circumstance and manner of a man's death. The address of the next of kin is on the soldier's service record.

Or there's no reason why each regiment shouldn't create a bureau of several men and an officer to collect data and investigate the history of each death for a reference file. The Army wastes more in other foolish foolscap details, like keeping regimental combat histories for publicity purposes. It wouldn't miss a few more guys on such a logical mercy mission.

I have had parents come to this office many, many times for some little memorabilia of their sons, with whom I talked and about whom I wrote before they were killed in action. What was he doing? Tell us again? How did he look and what did he say? It's their only bridge across eternity!

And don't let the Army tell you "That's the chaplain's job." The chaplains do what they can. But they're too few and their other labors too arduous. They can't do it all! The Army owes something more to these sacrificial families than "Regret to announce further information as available." It seems sensible with a little study and planning the Army and the Navy could alleviate some of this distressful silence and make this vital information available. After all it's primarily a people's war, and not the special prerogative of the brass hats and gold cuffs.

Workman New Tribe Star

By BILL GRIMES

In the excitement created by the acquisition of Mort Cooper and Joe Medwick, who became big name ball players while toiling for the St. Louis Cardinals, and the havoc caused by the ineffectiveness of the Braves' relief pitchers, Chuck Workman has been almost completely overlooked.

Workman is a third year man with the Braves and an outfielder by trade. He came up from the Southern Assn., where, in 1942, he hit .327 and batted in 107 runs for Nashville. During the 1943 season, he was named first year man of the Southern Assn. by the Braves and the Southern Assn. "best 250 I ever saw."

Chuck Workman

During the first 10 games of the season, Bob Coleman used five third basemen. Workman opened the campaign as the Braves' right fielder. After two games, he was brought in and assigned to the hot corner. But, he was benched when Norm Wallem joined the club and didn't get back until the lend-lease player from Indianapolis pulled a "Charley horse" and Chuck has been at third base off and on in 30 games.

Chuck has played great ball at third base. Naturally, he was nervous and had a tendency to tighten up when he first took over the hot corner berth. But, for the past fortnight, he has handled himself like a veteran and has come up with some startling plays.

Workman is paying his own way with the Braves and he has performed well enough at third base to retain that berth for the remainder of the season.

It was up to Nate Andrews today to get the Braves an even break in this series with Cincinnati. The Reds startled even their most ardent followers by taking both ends of Wednesday's twin bill from the Braves. But, yesterday, Workman came through with a home run in the 9th with two men down, a mate aboard and the Coleman a run behind to give the Braves a 7-6 victory and keep them in sixth place.

Manager Bill McKechnie, who wasn't feeling any better after yesterday's contest than Bob Coleman was after the twin bill, was to send Bucky Walters to the mound this afternoon. Walters has been on the hospital list since Dewey Williams spiked him a couple of weeks ago.

Tommy Holmes has hit safely in the last 24 games and he has made 99 hits this season. Due to the fact that he has 32 games to go to equal Joe DiMaggio's record, it might be just as well if, some day when the Braves get off to a flying start, Tommy goes hitless.

A month ago, Andrews lost a 12-inning game to the Reds in Cincinnati but in the same series Walters pitched a three-hit shut out against the Braves.

Ferriss Shoots for His 11th Win Today

By HUCK FINNEGAN

CHICAGO, June 29.—Dave Ferriss will shoot for his 11th victory of the season today when the Red Sox and White Sox renew their series, which was interrupted yesterday by wet grounds.

He was due to start yesterday and will have the benefit of an additional day of rest. Johnny Humphries will pitch for the Chicagoans.

Manager Joe Cronin is much pleased with the batting form of Dolph Camilli, who delivered an important single in the victorious ninth inning Wednesday night. Cronin intimated that as soon as Camilli is ready he will be stationed at first base and George Metkovich moved to the outfield.

The sun was shining brightly yesterday when Joe Cronin was called to the lobby phone. Red Sox-White Sox game postponed, was the message. "Single game tomorrow."

To Cronin's protesting "Why?" came the explanation: "No canvas on infield during early morning thunderstorm, field is muddy."

Dave Ferriss blinked. This makes the seventh time in 13 scheduled starts that rain has held me back a day.

Dave Wilson Picks 7 Winners, 1 Second

Dave Wilson, race track handicapper for the Green Sports Special of the Boston American, once more proved why he is called "The King" when he picked seven winners and one second at Suffolk Downs yesterday afternoon. The Wilson winners were Jes Lov Me, $12.40; Rough Feathers, $11.60 (daily double $55); Wise Decision, $3.40; Dark Morning, $6.60; Windmill, $3.40; Westminster, $5.00; Chiconia, $7.40.

Gypster, Wilson's choice, finished second to Matty Sue to pay $4.60 for place. Wilson almost equalled his feat at Tropical Park, Fla., a few years ago when he swept the card, picking eight winners.

Dave Wilson leads all New England handicappers this year. Dava has been the new England champion handicapper for the past 10 years.

Bill McAuley and Dave Komie, also Green Sports Special stars, also had big days yesterday. McAuley had four winners, Wise Decision, Dark Morning, Windmill and Westminster, while Komie had four winners, Dark Morning, Windmill, Westminster and Chiconia. Follow the choices of Wilson, McAuley and Komie in the Green Sports Special.

Carroll Pays $2200 to Fund as Ring Show Flops

By JACK CONWAY

DAN CARROLL has concluded he should have fought Lou Nova in place of Tami Mauriello at Fenway Park on Tuesday night at the Goodwin A. C. show for the Christopher Columbus High School fund.

Mauriello received $8000 and only had to toss half a dozen punches to knock out Nova who was paid $7500 for his feeble efforts.

Dan would have been willing to have boxed for much less than $8000 for 2m. 20s. If he could have thrown anything that looked like a healthy punch, he might have won, and ended up with a profit for the evening.

The matchmaking business, however, is not quite as good as the fighting end of the cauliflower industry. Instead of picking up a fat purse for lingering in the ring at Fenway Park Dan took a $2200 tab as matchmaker. He also will take a third of the Goodwin Club's loss of $3000 on the charity promotion.

Under the original arrangements between the Goodwin Club and the Christopher Columbus Fund the charity was to receive all of the profits of the show. The club hoped that the fund's end would amount to $10,000.

The setup of the show, however, was too expensive. The $15,500 purse given to Mauriello and Nova was out of line with their drawing powers.

The show would have gone much deeper in the red if the Gus Mell-Lulu Constantino bout had not been called off when the advance sale sagged. This cancellation saved the club $6000.

Fund Gets 10 Per Cent

JOHN STOKES, chairman of the boxing commission, and Messrs. Sam Smith and Daz Wadsworth went into a huddle when they found that the fund stood to end up without a cent as a result of the agreement by which it was to get all the profits. They revealed a rule of the boxing commission which reads as follows:

"No club shall be permitted to promote boxing shows in conjunction with a charitable organization unless it is agreed to compensate the charity a minimum of 10 per cent of the total gross receipts after federal and state taxes have been deducted."

The commission also studied its official contract for all boxing bouts which contains the following pertinent clauses:

"And shall be conducted in all respects in conformity with the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the rules and regulations adopted by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission."

"This all means," said Chairman Stokes, "that a charity must get at least 10 per cent of the gross receipts regardless of whatever agreement its committee has made. The charity must get its money before a single boxer is paid."

This matter was called to the attention of Dan Carroll who acted as matchmaker for the show.

"I'll donate the $2200 to the Christopher Columbus fund out of my own pocket," said Dan.

This was agreeable to Chairman Stokes.

Dan hurried from his conference with Stokes to Suffolk Downs. Maybe he bet on some of Dave Wilson's seven winners and got even for his $2200 donation and his third of the club's $3000 loss.

Matchmaking appears to be a costly job. Dan had something when he said the fighting end of the business is the most profitable.

To Check Charity Shows

CHAIRMAN Stokes told this writer that the commission intends to throw special safeguards around charity shows.

"We shall have many charity shows while the war lasts, while in the postwar period numerous veteran organizations will be anxious to help in boxing promotions," said Chairman Stokes. "I agree with the Boston American's effort to do everything possible to protect war and service charities and educational funds that may turn to boxing for needed cash. The suggestions offered in the Boston American were excellent ones."

"Many of the people associated with worthy causes have not had much experience in promotions and they should not be permitted to make mistakes. We shall insist that every charity get at least 10 per cent of the receipts and in other cases it is possible the charities may make arrangements by which they will receive larger amounts."

"We do not intend to allow boxers to be paid until the charities first get their percentages."

There have been boxing promoters who have given away 110 per cent of the gate and still wondered why they ended in the red.

Dan Carroll saved the boxing game and the Goodwin Club a black eye when he picked up the $2200 tab. When Jim Maloney was boxing in New York, Carroll often paid night club checks following wins that topped $2200.

Curley Smart Sets New Pacing Record

MARION, O., June 29 (AP)—Curley Smart raced 9-16 of a mile in 1:07 in the last heat of the 12-class pace at the Little Grand Circuit harness races last night, setting a new world's record for the distance.

The old record of 1:07½ was established by Dalehurst at Westbury, N. Y., in 1940.

Driven by Wayne Smart, the brown stallion owned by Joe A. Neville of Delaware, O., also set a new track record for the mile and equalled the nation's best mark this summer, 2:05½. A full two seconds were clipped off the track record.

Curley Smart won the 12-class pace and the $500 purse in straight heats.

McLennan Awaits Decision On Pavot

By DAVE WILSON

William Helis' Pindus and Kenneth Murchison's Poco Mas, both candidates for next Wednesday's running of the $25,000 Yankee Handicap, have arrived at Suffolk Downs from New York. . . . Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan is awaiting the decision of the handlers of Pavot and Gallorette as to their intentions of competing in the 3-year-old classic at the seaside course.

Jockey Warren Snyder has been engaged to pilot Kopla in tomorrow's renewal of the Plymouth Handicap, and Johnny Breen has been assigned the mount on Dog Day in the same race. . . . Trainer R. W. Collins has shipped the good two-year-old General Don to Delaware Park for Saturday's running of the Dover Stakes, and Jockey Rocco Sisto will make the trip to ride the colt.

Pat Patterson will ride his last race as an apprentice on July 1. Jockey J. De Lucia announces that he will sever his association with the Norwalk Stable on July 1 and join the J. Tabellario string.

Flourtown and Thruanthry are the latest additions to Starter Bob Fren's schooling list. . . . Tom Hasko, the genial trainer of an extensive string, has just heard from his sisters in Theron, Greece, after a lapse of four years.

Racing Secretary McLennan is calling the attention of horsemen to Saturday's closing of the $5000 Tomassello Memorial Handicap at six furlongs.

Field of 13 Seen In $100,000 Cap

ARCADIA, Cal., June 29 (AP)—Thirteen horses are expected to go to the post for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap tomorrow. Louis B. Mayer's No. 1 horse, Thumbs Up, is the solid favorite and it appears that he will not have a running mate as Trainer George Odum says he does not plan to run the champion filly, Busher. Johnny Longden will be aboard.

Backers of Gay Dalton, at 126 pounds (four pounds less than Thumbs Up) are booming the Mexican champion which hasn't shown much in two starts here. Charley Ralls, 38-year-old veteran, has signed to ride the 3-year-old Best Effort for Jay Packer. The horse may prove a threat. Jack Westrope brought him from last place to finish third in the Santa Anita Derby last Saturday.

Arlen Bassett will pilot Triplegate for Fred Astaire if he goes. The probable lineup:

AAU Meet Opens With 328 Entries

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—National A. A. U. track and field championships were to be held at Triboro Stadium today and tomorrow with a home-bred field of 328 entries.

Two senior events will be contested today along with the junior championship program. The senior and junior fields will be combined for the 10,000 meters run and the 3,000 meters walk.

The junior championships are open to any athlete who never has won an Olympic, National AAU, IC4-A or NCAA championship and some of the nation's fastest runners are in this class. Among them are Perry Samuels of San Antonio, Tex., and Zane Moon of Kemmerer, Wyo., high school sprinters who have turned in this year's fastest times for 100 yards; Floyd Cuff of the San Francisco Olympic Club, who has the year's best mark for the half mile, and Carmen Bova, outstanding middle distance runner from Hunter Field, Georgia.

Caseys Tackle Roslindale

David will meet Goliath tonight in parody when the Roslindale Town Team, listed as a soft touch so far this season yet developed into a flag threat overnight, meets the perennial Park League Championship Dick Casey Club at Fallon Field in Roslindale.

With the Caseys currently leading the loop and the Roslindalers providing the league with a cellar team, the Roslindalers have little to lose and all to gain while a loss to the Caseys could possibly mean loss of first place to the Navy Yards who are breathing down their neck in second place.

While hoping for a Roslindale win, the Navy Yards will attempt to do a little ground gaining on their own over at the South Boston Stadium where they meet the Linehan Club. A close tilt is in the offing at the Stadium as each team is fairly well matched.

Swiftly Romps at Revere Monday

With all difference between the Revere Racing Association and the dog men adjusted, Swiftly will start romping around Wonderland Park next Monday night. The schooling of the dogs was resumed last night, and it is expected there will be plenty of top greyhounds ready for the opening of the Revere season.

The dog owners and track operators are satisfied with their compromised agreement by which the purses are increased from $4000 to $5500 a night, and the track agrees to give bonuses of $1000 at the end to the dog owners.

There are 500 greyhounds available for the Revere meeting.

Slain Sailor Buried

Members of his family weep beside the grave of sailor Albert Kovacs, 19, who was shot and killed by Mrs. Imogene Stevens of New Canaan, Ct., in a neighbor's home. The mourners (l to r.) include John Kovacs, father; Rudy and Wilfred, brothers; Mrs. Kovacs, his mother, and another brother, James. A.P. Wirephoto

Ordained

During solemn ceremonies at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, 33 seminarians kneel before the high altar as they are ordained to the priesthood by His Excellency Archbishop Richard J. Cushing. The new priests will celebrate their first high masses in their home town parishes next Sunday.
